

In My Opinion . . .

Statement	Thoroughly Disagree	Disagree	Undecided	Agree	Thoroughly Agree
1. At the end of the play, I really felt sorry for Macbeth.
2. Banquo cannot be considered a tragic figure because he is not motivated by a character flaw.
3. If King Duncan had been more discerning in his choices of men to trust, all of the disasters in the play could have been avoided.
4. Lady Macbeth is a true tragic heroine and should be pitied, not hated.
5. In today's democratic society, Duncan's murdered guards could be viewed as tragic figures.
6. Lady Macduff cannot accurately be called a tragic figure.
7. Macbeth's ambition would not have prevailed if he had not been so vulnerable to his wife's comments about his lack of manliness.
8. Lady Macbeth is simply motivated by a desire to achieve the best results for her husband
9. If Macbeth had stopped killing after the death of Duncan, he could have had a long and successful kingship.
10. The witches should bear the blame for all of the bad things that happen during the play.
